

Blessed be our Lord, the Almighty

29 June 1989, Vassula prays:

Blessed be our Lord, the Almighty,
who alone performs marvels.

My God, You taught me Your Word
and I am still proclaiming your marvels.
Full of Compassion You forgave my guilt
and You brought me back to my senses.

You have made me understand and perceive Wisdom's Words:

They who eat Me will hunger for more, they who drink Me will thirst for more;¹

Similar to a woman who has been widowed,
so am I roaming in this desert

looking for Your Eternal Source and Your green pastures
where I may lay my head and rest.
